Public Safety Training Institute

Nationally recognized law enforcement legal expert Michael Rains developed this presentation to assist tactical teams and operations managers and supervisors to make legally defensible decisions without compromising operations during tactical events and critical incidents in the field.

Michael Rains will provide an overview of the present state of agency and individual liability related to law enforcement tactical operations. The presentation focuses on civil liability, agency liability, training and failure to train issues, supervisory issues, team tactics, special circumstances (Hostage - Duty to Protect; Emotionally and Mentally Disturbed persons; suicide by cop; high risk warrant service, etc...) and policy and procedural development for tactical operations. Contemporary tactical team issues including body worn cameras, video, recording and related evidence will also be discussed.

Today's tactical operators must be as thoroughly trained and educated in risk management principles as they are in team tactics and firearm proficiency in order to protect themselves, their team and organization from liability.
